3. Chinese New Year Holiday

School will close on 31th January 2014 in order to let Chinese families celebrate their culture.

For students who get a red envelope from this celebration, please keep in mind that you should economize your pocket money, no need to boast about what you got, spend on something useless or even borrow money from your friends. If any students notice that your friends behave badly as the examples above, you have got to tell your teacher immediately.

4. Valentine's Day

This “love” culture on 14th February came from the Occident which represents the love, the goodness, the sacrifice, the courage of St. Valentine. Although this is a beautiful day it totally influences and leads Thai adolescents to improper behavior. Parents should advise your kids to behave correctly, boys should respect and be a gentleman and girls should act modestly and also behave like a precious lady.

Moreover, in this year, Maka Bucha day is also on Feb the 14th which is a public holiday, therefore, we would like you to spend time on this long weekend worthily. If possible, we recommend that students should be with their family, shouldn't be allowed to sleep over at their friends' home. Flowers, gifts, stickers etc. are not allowed to bring to school or give to friends and teachers because this not only wastes your money but also shows improper relationship between boys and girls.

5. Updating Information

Due to the situation constantly changing, we will keep you updated via www.ektra.ac.th everyday around 8 pm. If you are informed via Line or Facebook, please recheck via school website before spreading misinformation.
